Grantee Profile

Hans Kristensen

Hans Kristensen has been working for years to identify and retrieve important government documents that guide and define official United States nuclear weapons policy. While much of the detailed information about nuclear weapons design and use is appropriately kept secret, all too often policy and the analysis behind it is classified and buried under arcane rules and bureaucratic secrecy. Kristensen deftly uses the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) to obtain critical documents that reveal exactly what U.S. nuclear weapons policy is, and how it was arrived at. This sleuth work provides crucial information for public scrutiny and debate.
